INSTITUTIONAL BEST PRACTICE 2023-24

‘SOCIAL SERVICE INTERVENTION’

By

STAFF AND STUDENTS
GOVERNMENT DEGREE COLLEGE, CHEBROLE

Title of the Best Practice: “Social Service Intervention”
 (Reaching out to the needy)

Organized by: Faculty and students of this college

Frequency of conduction: Twice in a year (on an average)

Place of Conduction: “CHILD” an orphanage located at Brahmanakoduru village, Chebrole mandal, Guntur district located 8 kms from our college

Objective of the Practice:

- To create a value oriented environment in the campus by nurturing the quality of empathy among the students
- To enable the students realize their pivotal role in the development of the community
- To foster a spirit of service among the students

Resources: Human Resources

The Practice: This institution adheres to a value system of compassion, love and caring for others. To cherish this value, the institution has adopted an orphanage located in Brahmanakoduru village of Chebrole mandal which is located at about 8 kms from our college. The administration, faculty and students owned the responsibility of paying a regular visit to the place and voluntarily contribute in several ways for the welfare of the inmates. Most of the times, they take to serve delicious food to the children, who were otherwise deprived of enjoying a tasty meal. This is observed without fail during the college Fresher’s day, Anniversary Day Celebration, NSS camp days and any other day depending on its importance. Students willingly take part in the collection of funds, procuring the provisions, food preparation, transport and serving. The NSS Volunteers of this institution also take time to interact with the children about their studies and hobbies. Faculty and students try to cheer them up by providing the food items of their choice and by narrating stories. Faculty members donate old clothing, sweets, books and other essentials to the children at the orphanage. Students from the neighbouring villages are taught to send food to the orphanage on special occasions in their family. Faculty members also share the joy of celebrating their birthdays and achievements by distributing sweets and savouries to the orphans at the home. Students also volunteer to collect old clothing, toys and other things for the sake of the students in the home.

Problems Encountered: Problems relating to transport occurred a few times. Surprisingly fund collection has not been a problem so far.

Evidence of success: It can be claimed beyond doubt that this Community Connect programme has been a big hit with students winning accolades from the neighbouring villages. Taking cue from this institution the neighbouring villages also have come forward to donate food during festivals and other important occasions in their family. In spite of hailing from below middle class families the students of this institution volunteer to offer something to the children in the home. The students in the home have developed a bonding with the students of this institution and eagerly look forward to meeting them. They would happily share the news of their achievements in academics and sports.
